declare an interest as past president of bothmdash;believe that a minimum unit price would lead to a decrease in the cost of such vaccines. The implications of this finding could extend to other live attenuated vaccines, including those for humans.